About

Introduction What juices me is being an entrepreneur and fostering others to succeed in their own business! I have a big heart for helping professional coaches discover the thrill of making it BIG in coaching on their own terms.

I've been a coach for 13 years, and spent 8 of those years training coaches at CTA and systematically learning the developmental path of the prosperous coach. Now, through my online coaching community, Prosperous Coach, I walk life and business coaches through the steps it takes to market less, coach more clients, and earn more.

Check out my take on how to build a soul-satisfying coaching business from the ground up on the Prosperous Coach blog.

Some things are just non-negotiable had a discussion with my husband and we were discussing what was essential and what was not from the budget. The conversation turned to training sessions at my gym. He said, "Just work with a trainer twice a week? Just do it on your own." But here's the thing - she keeps my body in great shape, she's stronger and even more fit. If I work out on my own doing the same exercises over and over again I will plateau and anyone

What might lead you the small business owner to seek the collaboration of a business coach?

Assuming no one was pushing the buttons.....but there was a need.....what might those motivations be to seek the collaboration of a small business or personal coach?

I can think of 8 good reasons why a small business owner would consider working with a coach:

- ~ To learn how to use the Internet to grow their business.
- ~ To get perspective from someone who has 'been there and done that', so they're not making avoidable mistakes
- ~ To benefit from 'outside the box' thinking about what else is possible, and how else it can be achieved
- ~ To master the fine art of working smarter, not harder
- ~ To help them create a success strategy they can easily follow
- ~ To have the time as space to brainstorm new ideas
- ~ To make sure they're moving in the right direction
- ~ To be supported by someone who shares their vision

That said, perhaps the most compelling reason I've heard for seeking the collaboration of a business coach is simply to do BETTER.

Marie, last week during Q&A you said, "When the game changes, you've got to change your game." Is that an original Marie quote? I tried to find the source but can't find it and want to include it in a section of my book. I already had written "Change the game plan" but I loved how you said it. Of course I want to credit the right source. Can you shed some light? Thanks again for the B-School ride of a lifetime!

“How To Become a Master of Enrollment”

So That Your Ideal Clients Say “YES” To Paying For Your Services
ANYTIME, ANYWHERE!

Rhonda Hess
Founder of Prosperous Coach

If you could use more clients, you're going to love these proven strategies for getting a lot of clients very quickly. In fact...

What would it be like if 80% or more of the prospects you talk to became clients?

I know how frustrating it feels when you put a lot of energy in marketing your business and arranging conversations with prospects.... and when it comes to a decision, they say "no thanks."

If you can use improvement in this area, I have a special treat for you. I have invited my friend and business coach extraordinaire, Bill Baren, to join us for a one-time only FREE teleclass.

It's called "How to Become a Master of Enrollment" and it will open your eyes to new strategies and tactics for having prospects jump at the chance of saying YES! to your services.

~~Purchasing these strategies, in the last 4 years 80% of the prospective clients Bill has~~

From: "Prosperous Coach" <support@prosperouscoach.com>

Date: October 26, 2010 2:00:48 AM MDT

To: "Rhonda Hess" <webmaster@prosperouscoach.com>

Subject: Will you be there too?

Dear Rhonda,

A quick -- but very important -- reminder that my free teleclass with Bill Baren, "How to Become a Master of Enrollment", is happening TOMORROW.

If you have potential clients walking away and not signing up for your services, then you need to be on this call.

Bill will show you how he converts 80% of prospects into clients - so that people will say YES! to your services.

If the idea of having to "sell" yourself (and coming across as pushy or sales-y in the process)... and then getting rejected by a potential client is your worst nightmare, I promise you'll get BREAKTHROUGH insights and practical actions from this telecall.

There is still time to register and secure your spot for this valuable call before it fills up. Hurry! The call is happening tomorrow:

Wednesday, October 27th at 1:00pm Pacific / 4:00pm Eastern.
